Clingmans Dome

The Top of the Smokies

At 6,642 feet, Clingmans Dome is the high point of Great Smoky Mountains National Park and one of the highest peaks in the eastern United States.

An observation tower at the summit takes you above the treetops for a panoramic view that is often spectacular. Climatic conditions, however, may interfere with long-range viewing. You will often see a lot of the bluish haze these mountains are famous for. Clouds sometimes shroud the tower, and rain is frequent. Be prepared for cooler temperatures and stronger breezes.

Distance to Clingmans Dome	½ mile
Ascent from parking area	330 feet
Walking time to tower	30 minutes

Your body may not be used to the thinner air up here: if you experience shortness of breath, slow down or stop to rest.

The hard-surfaced path is moderately steep.

Please help to preserve the park for all to enjoy. It is unlawful to remove or disturb plants or animals, or to remove or deface natural or historical features.

Pets are prohibited on trails.
